

What is Fileodex

How many of your possessions could you name and describe accurately if an insurance adjuster asked for a list? No one likes to think about experiencing a household disaster, but taking stock of the items you own is a wise protection. A complete and accurate accounting of your household furnishings and important documents can help you settle insurance claims, documenting losses for tax purposes, create an inventory to indicate the monetary value of your belongings for a net worth statement, provide proof of ownership in the case of separation or divorce, and decide how much insurance to carry on household goods.

The IRS States: " Reconstructing records after a disaster may be essential for tax purposes, getting federal assistance or insurance reimbursement. Records that you need to prove your loss may have been damaged or destroyed in a casualty."

What better way to be prepared than to have everything on a FileDex Memory Drive.
